

Aims of the Palestine material

- To bring discussion of Palestine-Israel into the school, both because it is an important issue in itself and because it is an emotional issue for some students and should be properly discussed – everyone in the school community needs to know more
- To discuss Palestine and hear Palestinian voices as they are under-represented
- To create an opportunity to know a culture and situation that is new to most of the students
- To encourage students to listen to people who are unlike themselves
- To build respect for human rights and international law
- To develop knowledge of the world, critical thinking, seeing through others' eyes
- To help students who are moved by a situation to find positive ways to act: to develop campaigning skills

The six lessons

This section will be posted after another meeting with the main group of teachers at the end of September.
